Hawes Still Asserts that He Did Not Kill His Wife and Child.

Anger and Grief Over the Outcome of the Attack on the Jail.

ISPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD.] BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Dec. 10.-The city is practically under military rule, and no further outbreak of the citizens is anticipated The terrible results of the attack on the iail Saturday night have dismayed the mob. but it is fear that restrains them from making another attempt to lynch R. R. Hawes. The arrest of Sheriff Smith on a charge of murder has done much toward bringing about a state of order and quiet. Col. Jones in command of the militia, last night issued a proclamation calling upon all citizens to refrain from assembling in the neighborhood of the jail, and requesting them not to assemble in crowds anywhere in the city. He invokes the aid of all good citizens to assist the sathorities in allaying the excitement and to preserve peace and good order.

A similar proclamation has been issued by Mayor Thompson, who calls upon all lawabiding citizens to put aside their private grievances and guard with loyalty the public

Hawes, whom the mob attempted to lynch, Hawes, whom the mob attempted to lynch, is reported as having been perfectly cool during the attack upon the jail. He seemed to feel that the mob would succeed in getting in the jail, and he dressed himself and expressed his readiness to accompany the crowd as soon as they reached him. He still stoutly asserts his innocence of the charge of having murdered his wife and child.

The urime for which Hawe's life is in jeopardy is here summarized: Last Tuesday the body of a little girl was found in Eastlake, near this city. The fact was established that she had been murdered, and Wednesday the body was identified as that of Mary Hawes, the daughter of R. R. Hawes, who is a railroad engineer.

Circumstances pointed to the girl's father as her murderer. He was married in Columbus, Miss., Wednesday evening, though supposed to have a wife here. On his arrival here with his bride that night he was charged with murder and arrested.

Then it was learned that he had never been divorced from his first wife, and that she had been missing since last Saturday as well as a younger child.

Search for the woman's body commenced at once, and soon additional circumstantial

Search for the woman's body commenced at once, and soon additional circumstantial evidence against Hawes was secured, and Saturday evening the body of his wife was found at the bottom of the lake weighted lown with iron.

This caused intense excitement throughout the city, and that night fifty or more officers were placed around the jail, armed with Winchester rifles, anticipating a possible at-tempt to lynch Hawes.

Of the nine men killed in the attack Saturday night no one will be more missed than Maurice B. Throckmorton, the young Post-master. When shot he was endeavoring to persuade the mob to withdraw. In fact, this was true of several men who lost their lives.

The seriously wounded are in the hospital and three or four will probably die.

BEEKMAN AND SMITH DIDN'T RESIGN, SO

Dec. 10 has come and the grand coup of the County Democrats to retain control of the patronage of the Public Works and Law departments has not been made.

There remains, however, until Dec. 21 for its consummation, and it may not be made until Mayor Hewitt's last day in office.

Nothing can be done until the present incumbents resign, and neither Commissioner of Public Works D. Lowber Smith nor Corporation Counsel Henry R. Beekman will or Public Works D. Lowber Smith nor Corporation Counsel Henry R. Beekman will resign to-day.

The latter, in fact, does not fall in with the scheme. He does not like the idea of a fight, and a more pugnacious County Democrat must be found to battle with Mayor Grant's appointee for the possession of the Corporation Counsel's office.

Mr. Beekman intimated to-day that he would be willing to and probably will resign before January, and it is generally thought that his successor will be Col. E. T. Wood, a former Tammanyite, but now one of the most bitter opponents of the Hall politicians.

Col. Wood has given it as his opinion that the provision of the Consolidation set which declares that the terms of office of the Commissioner of Public Works and Corporation Counsel expire May 1 is unconstitutional, and he would undoubtedly make a desperate fight to have his opinion sustained by the courts.

When asked this morning if he proposed to tender his resignation to-day, Mr. Beekman asked why he should resign to-day more than any other day between now and Jan. 1.

He said that he was heartily sick of the stories of an alleged conspiracy to retain control of the offices, to which conspiracy he is alleged to be a party; desied that he is engaged in such a conspiracy and asserted that if he should resign and Mayor Hewitt should reappoint him he would not attempt to remain in office longer than May 1, 1889, when the law says the term of office of the Corporation Counsel terminates.

Commissioner of Public Works Smith was intervied at the office of the Aqueduct Commission and said:

"I have not resigned yet, and, so far as I know now will not resign between now and Jan 1"

Jan. 1."

He did not say but his intention regarding his resignation might change before Mayor Hewit's term expires.

It is rumored that the scheme of the Counties may be allowed to miscarry as to the Corporation Counsel's office because of the probability that Mayor Grant's appointee as Counsel to the Corporation will be 'Police Commissioner' Charles P. Hewitt and his brother-in-law ex-Mayor Cooper.
With his friend the Tammany appointee for the position, it is thought that Mayor Hewitt would not care to appoint a fighting successor to Beekman who would resist Mr. McLean's claims to the office.

It is asked why Mayor Grant should appoint a man Corporation Counsel who is known to hold such friendly relations with the opposition to Tammany, though a Tammany man himself.

The answer is found in the fact that he can do less harm in the Corporation Counsel's office that on the Police Board.
Commissioner McLean, though nominally a Tammanyite, is a rather independent sort

'This is the programme; you may depend on it," said a well-known politician this morning. 'And more than that, on the expiration of President French's term he will be reappointed, while another Tammany man will succeed the Republican Commissioner McClave, and then the Hall will have the great patronage an influence of the police organization."

AWAY FOR HAYTI.

The Galena Will Sail To-Night or Early on the Morrow.

She Was Put Under Her War-Time Orders To-Day.

The Other Ships Still Busy With Their Preparations,

The U. S. corvette Galena will sail from the Brooklyn Navy-Yard for Hayti either tonight or early in the morning. The Secretary of the Navy has been notified that the ship is ready for the voyage, and all preliminaries have been arranged. A squad of marines under the direction of corporal did guard duty at and around Admiral Gherardi's headquarters in the Brooklyn Navy-Yard this morning.

At all times there is present there an orderly sergeant, who, when not announcing visitors, carrying letters, or performing other functions peculiar to the footman of the civilian, whiles away the fleeting hours by pacing a track in the floor or gazing out the window. He will never command an hundred men, but he dreams he is the Admiral. But though by his own confession he is brave above all other men, this orderly was not considered a sufficient guard for an admiral to have about him in these war times. Hence the Corporal's guard; and these, fully alive to the daugers of their position and the honors which perchance might come to them from rescuing the Admiral from death or annoyance, passed the time in telling tales of battles never fought and in freacoing the tinted walls with the juice of the tobacco plant. At all times there is present there an orderly coing the tinted walls with the juice of the to-bacco plant.

The Admiral himself was very busy. Not only did he listen to confidential reports from many of the captains stationed in the yard, but was momentarily expecting orders from Secretary Whitney which would compel him to direct Admiral Luce to direct Capt. Sumner to get the United States corvette Galena under way and proceed to Hayti, there to compel the island Government to straightway free from bondage a ship owned by citizens of the United States, or pay 60,000 golden samoleons for the destruction of the same.

All this troubled the genial Admiral, and not even the presence of the orderly reinforced by the corporal's guard could free him from anxiety.

About the yard more men worked more rapidly than on Saturday, On board the Richmond but slight additions had been made to the force of workers. Coal was still being dumped into the bunkers and oakun was still being forced betwirt the she issue is powder and touches.

This morning swarms of blue-jackets lightly swing themselves high up into the rigging of the Galena, and aided by some of their fellows below, put new ropes in the place of old, and did what splicing, knotting and clewing was deemed necessary.

Early this morning the Galena was put under sailing orders. That is, she is now doing sea duty, and none of her force can leave her deck unless permitted or ordered so to do.

The new man-of-war Chicago now lies alongside the Cob Dock, with her bow almost touching that of the Galens.

Many men, a large scow and two derricks were engaged in putting new and large steal guns aboard her. She Moks very large alongside the Galena, but not a tenth so pugnecious.

pugnacious.

The seamen aboard the latter are all anxious for the start to be made, and that they knew that but a few hours remained for them here was evident from the presence of their wives, sisters or sweethearts, who, attired in their Sunday clothes, stood on the dock and proudly tendered their farewell gifts and kisses.

It is now thought most probable that the Richmond will not go to Hayti unless the Galena should find the islanders too much for her.

The Yantic will probably start, but should the Galena weigh anchor to-day and proceed to Hayti without delay, the little misunderstanding will have been settled before the Yantie can reach the scene of action,

MITCHELL AND MCAFFREY.

They Are Matched for a Ten-Round Go in Jersey City. Charley Mitchell and Dominick McCaffrey were matched in Atlantic City, yesterday, for ten-round hard glove contest, to take place in Jersey City, Jan. 20, for $1,500 a side.

This match has been brought about by Billy O'Brien, Doc Robbins, of Philadelphia, and Jimmy Kennedy, of the Sporting Times.

Messrs, O'Brien and Kennedy went to Philadelphia Saturday, and after meeting a number of sporting men and talking the matter over, they went to Atlantic City, accompanied by Robbins, and, after seeing Mitchell, completed their arrangements.

Although this will be an exhibition contest, it will give Mitchell and McCaffrev an opportunity to settle the differences which followed their draw fight in Madison Square Garden several years ago.

McCaffrey is expected to arrive in Atlantic City from the West to-day. He will remain there and go into hard and earnest training, while Mitchell will train on Long Island.

The Englishman is expected in this city to-morrow. He will meet Jake Kilrain at the Police Gazette office, and between them they will endeavor to answer John L. Sullivan's challenge to Kilrain.

GROPING IN A THICK FOG.

archist Methods? Many Delays on the Ferries and the Elevated Road—The Southfield Runs Into an Caknown and Scow—Our Weather Sage Says Something Is Coming To-Mor-row Which Will Tear Things.

On the ferries, the elevated roads, and in the streets all was confusion this morning, owing to the thick and often impenetrable fog which prevailed.

The fog began to grow thick at 4 o'clock, and at 5 a. M. and 6 a. M. it was necessary for the boats on each of the different ferries to wait in their slips for each other. For fear of collision only one on each line made the crossing at the same time.

The funereal tolling of the ferry-house bells sounded dismally over the water, diversified by the continuous shricking of the whistles of the numberless steam-craft, who groped their perilous way through the fog. The boats had many a tight squeeze and more than once collision and subsequent disaster were averted only by a hair's breadth. Pilots swore and fumed and passengers on ferry-boats swarmed apprehen-sively out upon the decks to be ready for passengers on ferry-boats swarmed apprehensively out upon the decks to be ready for emergencies.

The steamship Atlas, which was swung clear of her muddy bed off Vessy street Saturday and ye terday, and her attendant fleet of pontoons and tugs complicated matters greatly on the North River.

The Staten Island ferry-boat, Southfield, collided with a drifting sand-laden scow while in the "tide streak," midway between the Battery and Castle William. The fog was very dense and the scow displayed no lights. The ferry-boat lost the quarrer-block from her rudder and was compelled to lay up for a number of trips. Her passengers were slightly panie stricken, but fortunately no one was injured. The werning squad of the Elevated road was out in full force, and in addition to the regular flag system lamps were employed. All along the route they were so closely placed that it was almost impossible for an accident to occur.

On the Sixth avenue road the squad patrolled the platform so carefully that once in awhile they were seen in groups of three and four. There were many delays.

The Next Legislature May Repeal a Law Which the Farmers Do Not Like. [SPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD.]

The old blue law imposes a fine of $10 upon any one who permits a ram to go at large between the lat day of August and the ist day of December.

Since protection to the wool growers has been assured the wool industry has received a new impetus throughout the grassy slopes of Western Connecticut.

The law in reference to rams is about to be brought to a test between two farmers living on Turkey Hill, near Derby. It involves some local technicalities.

One of the farmers is to bring suit against his neighbor for damage done by the latter having permitted his ram to go at large.

The defendant claims that his ram escaped on the 30th of last November and did no damage until the next morning, which was Dec. I, and therefore he is not liable to a fine, as the law was off. as the law was off.

The farmers living around Derby are anxious to have the law repealed.

Frequent repetitions of the present case are liable to occur.

The fences in Connecticut are mostly of stones and built low. Rams will certainly be jumping fences in all directions, and should the law remain in force their owners will be subjected to fines. One reason advanced in the bill to repeal the law is that the Winter months are getting annually less and less severe and that the winds are tempered to the shorn laub.

The Connecticut Legislature is composed largely of farmers and the repeal of this statute law is liable to receive careful and ex-

JUSTICE CLAIMS HIM AS THE MURDERER OF POLICEMAN BRENNAN.

Story of Carlton's Deed After Leaving Tucker's Saloon—Mis Escape and Capture-Howe & Hummel Pitted Against Ex-Judge Bedford-One of the Most

" Handsome Harry" Carlton was arraigned at the bar of justice to-day for trial for the kiling of brave Police man James Brennan of Capt. Ryan's squad, on the morning of Oct. 28. He was brought down from the Tombs by Deputy Sheriff Lynch. Carlton and two companions were ca-rousing in Tucker's saloon, at Third ave-HENRY CARLTON. nue and Thirty-third treet, between 4 and 5 o'clock on the morn-street, between 4 and 5 o'clock on the morning in question, when Julius Roesler, a German waiter, entered. Roesler was quite drunk, and Carlton and his companions made sport of him, snatching his umbrells and insisting on being "treated."

The barkeeper ejected Roesler, who staggered to his home, 162 East Thirty-third street. Carlton and the other followed him, and as he was about to ascend his doorsteps Carlton struck him in the face and then threw himself upon him.

Roesler velled for help and the three roughs ran away in different directions. Carlton ran into the arms of Policeman Brennan, at Third avenue and Thirty-third street, and when the latter esayed to arrest him, drew a revolver and fired four shots into the face of the officer. Brennan fell morially wounded, and the last sacrament of extreme unction for the repose of his soul was said over him by Rev. Father Kenny, who was hastily summoned from St. Gabriel's Church.

OFFICER BRENNAN Brennan died in Bellevue Hospital less than three hours after the shooting. The bullets from a 38-calibre self-acting revolver had entered the left temple, piercing the brain, the mouth, lodging at the base of the brain and the left side of the neck respecbrain and the left side of the neck respectively.

The sound of the shots brought Policemen Thomas Kearns, Michael Dolan and Morris Colgan from neighboring posts, and Dolan and Colgan from neighboring posts, and Dolan and Colgan caught the fleeing Cariton in East Thirty-fifth street. He had thrown sway his revolver, which was afterwards found near the place of capture.

Carlton earned the soubriquet of "Handsome Harry," through the extreme ugliness of his face. He is low browed and beetling, and his face is very repulsive. He has been a criminal since childhood. When only fourteen years old he was arrested for a criminal since childhood. When only fourteen years old he was arrested for burglary, but convicting evidence could not be obtained and he escaped punishment.

Carlton and a man named Elliott served five years each at Sing Sing for inveigling a countryman into "Corcoran's Roost," in East Fortieth street, and there slugging and robbing him. Carlton was discharged in 1886. He has been under lock and key for minor offenses innumerable times and he is a brother-in-law of "Boss" McKenna, of 551 First avenue.

Carlton's trial began before Judge Martine in Part I, of the Court of General Sessions late to-day.

Howe & Hummel are engaged in the defense of Carlton, and "Joe" Moss will superintend the getting of a jury of peers to try him, while Assistant District-Attorney Bedford will try the case for the prosecution.

Exacts Bedford said it would take two days to obtain a jury, as the case was one of the most important in years.

WHO WERE THE DUELLISTS?

Dr. A. F. Dulin, of Baltimore, Arrested-A Bullet-Hole in His Hat.

[SPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD.] CHARLESTON, S. C., Dec. 10. - A duel took place early this morning at Sanbar Ferry, the famous duelling grounds, three miles from Augusta. The names of the contestants from Augusta. The names of the contestants cannot be learned.

One is said to be a Philadelphian, while the other is supposed to be from Lancaster, S. C. The Terryman at Sanbar Ferry says that there were four shots fired and that one man was badly wounded, while the other had a hole through his hat.

Dr. A. F. Dulin, of Baltimore, a well-dressed young man, has been arrested in Augusta for smashing the windows of a cab in which he was riding.

He said to The Evening World correspondent that he was sorry to shoot his opponent, whose name be refused to give.

His hat has a bullet hole through it.

An Ultimatum to Higgins & Co. A committee of the Carpet-Workers' Pro-gressive Union will call on Supt. John Higgins at the big carpet mills at Forty-third street and Eleventh avenue, to-day or to-morrow and ask if the firm of E. S. Higgins & Co. will enforce the reduction of 1.2½ per cent. in wages on Dec. 17, according to the notice posted in the factory. If the firm insists upon making the reduction they say a strike of the 900 hands now employed in the mills will surely take place.

Dance of the Krinkle Association The Krinkle Benevolent Association, which has for its purpose the caring of the sick and infirm east-side people, gave a ball Saturday night at the Harmony Club Rooms, in Essex street. Among those present were Jacob Kaiser, Coro-ner Eidman's clerk, and Nicholas Bolpzer, the well-known Essex street butcher.

No mortal yet has e'er forecast. The moment that shall be his last, but Dr. PIERCE'S PLEASANT PELLATE have forever settled the question of a comfortable existence until that moment does arrive, and put to flight the reslancholy forebodings of sufferers from biliousness, headache, indigention, constipation and kindred ailments.

A Cherry Street Surprise Party Ends in a Murder.

A tragedy more revolting in its details than the mysterious umbrella mystery oc.

The Bergen family, consisting of the father, Stephen, mother, three sons, John, Roderick and Tom, and two comely daughters, Anna and Mary, live on the first floor of 221 Cherry street.

Anna, the eldest daughter, reached her twentieth birthday yesterday and a party was held to celebrate the event. All of the young girls in the neighborhood, including Hannah and Lilly Scully, were present, and the young folks had a good time until the entertainment was about to close, when a cloud was cost over all by unexpected interference hallway, played on an old harmonics and danced.

The Bergens stood this for some time, but finally opened their door and commanded the intruders to leave. They refused to go, and, catching Johnny Bergen, threw him on the floor and commenced to beat him. Johnny Bergen escaped from his assailants, and, according to his own story, rushed back into the room closely pursued. Grabbing a case knife, he held it up in a defensive position, and as the trio rushed in the knife was jabbed into the mouth of one of them.

Without saving a word his companions caught him by the arms and assisted him out. At 12.15 o'clock Detective Mulcahy was passing through Cherry street, and when in front of No. 230 he heard a groan, closely followed by a gag, which sounded from the hallway. He entered and found a man apparently thirty years old, lying in a pool of blood which was flowing from his mouth.

The officer ran out and summoned an ambulance from the Gouverneur Hospital, and the injured man was taken to Bellevue Hospital.

o'clock. He round him in hiding in soully home.

At Bellevue Hospital the injured man tossed about on a cot. The knife had penetrated his lower lip, cut through the tongue and then ran into the roof of his mouth. Without having uttered a word he died at 7.20 o'clock this morning.

The Scully family were notified of his death, but it was kept from the ears of Hannah, the oldest daughter, who has kept home for the family since their mother died fifteen mouths ago.

was cast over all by unexpected interference from the outside.

About 11.45 o'clock a heavy piece of coal crashed through the window and struck Stephen Bergen on the back of the head. Together with his two eldest sons Bergen went outside and ordered three young men from the door. They went away, but returned about midnight, and, entering the hallway, played on an old harmonics and danced.

Mulcahy obtained a lantern and followed a bloody trail leading from the hallway of 230 to within a few feet of 221. A light was in the window, and, peering in through the window, he saw a woman who seemed to be greatly excited. The detective entered the room where the occupants denied that anything wrong had occurred; but on opening the bedroom door the officer saw John Bergen crouched down in the corner. He arrested him and the boy told what he had done.

other was unknown. Detective Leary arrested Quinlan at o'clock. He found him in hiding in Scully nah, the oldest daughter, who has kept house for the family since their mother died fifteen months ago.

All of the prisoners were arraigned before Judge Duffy at Essex Market, and remanded until this afternoon.

When an Evenino World reporter called at the home of the Scullys, a pitiful state of affairs was brought to his attention. Hannah, the oldest girl, had become worried over her brother's non-appearance and over the mysterious movements going on around her, and had lost her mind. She mosned, and when The Evenino World man entered she pleaded with him to "bring back Georgy." Her companions tried to comfort her by saying that George would return at 2 o'clock, but that didn't seem to satisfy the sister.

The Bergen boys bear a good reputation, They have worked in a cracker bakery for five years, and the superintendent says that they have always been of a mild, disposition and honest.

Quinlan, who was a companion of Scully in raising the disturbance, bears a bad name, He has been locked up several times for petty thefts, and at one time he was ejected from 12 Felham street on account of his character.
